may they can buy. This leads up to describing the hat and bag set to the right. Here you see the "last word" in fur luxury interpreted in this stunning Cossack hat, made of black seal, together with a massive matching bag. The hat is ornamented with an imposing big jewel, done in the true Russian spirit, the magnificent success of Russian arms having inspired this millinery triumph from John Fredericks. The little Cossack hat is an outstanding favorite this season.

Rich browns are making color news this year, and you can choose nothing smarter than an outfit done in a radiant tone of brown, the same delighted with hat and other details worked in handsome mink. The roughish hat shown at the top is trimmed with mink, thus calling attention to the costume entire as a study in brown." Her gold hoop earclips and flexible gold bracelets are perfect to wear with this costume. It is just such smart wearable fur-trimmed hats as this that women will be wearing with their Smart wool costumes the winter through. Smart accessories to these hats include a drawstring bag made of mink with detachable mink flaps that may be worn at will. Original—save your scraps of mink. Your furrier and your milliner can fashion an accessory collection out of them "worth a king's ransom" in appearance.

Don't throw even the tiniest scrap of fur away. In the fur case left over from shortening your coat or restyling it, lurk possibilities of a new drawstring bag, a "tricky" neck piece or a lovely sizer. Out of a tidbit of fur clever designers will evolve a wee bow to adorn your breast pocket of your coat or a bowknot to fasten on each end of your gloves or to clip on your dress-up pumps.

RUSSIA'S FUTURE FORM OF GOVERNMENT

IN OUR PRIDE we like to think of America as the dominant power of the world. We may be that today, but what of the comparatively near future?

The dominant powers of the to-morrows may very easily be Russia and China. We grew to greatness because we had the resources with which to work, with a form of government and an economic system that created a will to work. Today Russia has the resources, she has the man power and given the will to work, she can outdistance us within the next half century.

The Russian government today is not communist. It is purely a dictatorship and dictatorship by only one man as long as the dictator lasts. The dictatorship in Russia is providing education for Russian youth. The next generation will be more capable of individual and mass thinking than has any generation of the past. The dictatorship of Joseph Stalin has made many things possible and these have meant advancement. Tomorrow Russia is at the threshold of a new era, a new world. She has oil, mineral timber, an abundance of fertile soil and man power. All she lacks is that economic system out of which is created the will to achieve.

Joseph Stalin will pass and with him, in all probability, will pass the dictatorship, to be followed by a régime of government that will provide the needed economic system. Should that prove true, the Russian people and the people of the world will thank Joseph Stalin for his accomplishments. It is my belief that communism was but a passing phase in the life of the nation. It was a young man that lives today more in the minds of zealots in other countries than in Russia.

SOME SIX YEARS AGO, when in Honolulu, I looked for material for a newspaper article on the subject of the Japanese population of the Hawaiian Islands. I found many, a big majority, who pronounced them good citizens. They supported such statements with what seemed to be good evidence. Others, including intelligence officers of both the army and navy, were emphatic in their denunciation of the Japs and insisted they were an ever-present source of danger to the islands and to the nation.

My interest in the subject had been aroused by people I had talked to in California. The Californians had insisted the Japs up and down the coast were a menace to the safety of the nation and could not be trusted. The people of the coast states had, for years, attempted to impress upon congress and people of states farther east that the Japs were a dangerous element, many of them paid spies of the Tokyo government, and not to be trusted.

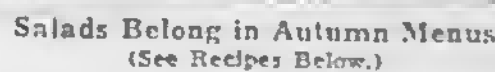

After weighing the evidence gathered at Honolulu, I decided the Japs were good citizens, loyal to the United States, and wrote my story from that viewpoint.

Events have demonstrated how entirely wrong I was in my estimate of the Jap character. The Japs were all the intelligence officers of the army and navy said they were. They were all the people of the Pacific coast states and they were. Today, as a resident of a Pacific coast state, I trust they may never again be permitted residence in my town and my state. If the people of the Pacific coast have the say so, they never will.

A LETTER from an old newspaper editor friend tells me of his retirement after 52 years of newspapering. In his letter he says: "I have enough to see me through if I do not live too long." But I wonder if he considers all the possibilities. We may have money. Judged from our past expenditures, it may be enough to last a definite length of time. But are past experiences a criterion for the future? The ugly hand of inflation is just beyond the horizon. The dollars of today will depreciate to the values of tomorrow. He who must live on a fixed income may find it will not provide the price of tomorrow's bread. It is an uncertain age and the most helpless individual is he who has saved that he may leave a bequest for his declining years based on the conditions of the yesterday. Inflation is no respecter of individuals. We do not know, we can only hope.

Is a salad an integral part of your diet or do you set it aside just for summer months when vegetables are easy to obtain and serve in salad form?

Food authorities and doctors have long recommended the use of raw fruits and vegetables in the diet not only to guarantee more vitamins and minerals to the diet, but to give the necessary roughage to the system. Vegetables contain a great deal of cellulose and are not as easily digested as the softer foods. This means they aid in proper function and elimination and belong daily in every diet.

Although we are limited in the amount of fresh vegetables obtainable in the fall and winter months, there are some available which offer many possibilities for salads. Cabbage, carrots, citrus fruits and apples are the most common. For a more substantial salad item, use cottage cheese. It will also give you a goodly amount of calcium, needed for proper bone and tooth development.

If your family has been shrunk by the fall here are two recipes especially designed for smaller families:

Cut a thin slice from the stem end of each tomato. Remove seeds and part of the pulp. Sprinkle inside with salt. Invert and chill. Fill with finely shredded cabbage combined with green pepper, moistened with a dressing made of 4 tablespoons sweet cream, 2 teaspoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons vinegar.

(Serves 2)

Place green stringless beans, cooked and chilled in individual lettuce cups. Combine 1 tablespoon vinegar,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Beat with egg beater or shake in a jar until well blended. MASH 3 tablespoons Roquefort cheese and then add oil and vinegar mixture slowly, stirring until very smooth. Pour over beans and serve at once.

Sliced boned beefs
Sliced, boiled string beans
Sliced boiled carrots
Boiled green peas
Boiled lima beans
French dressing
Chopped olives
Boiled potatoes

Prepare and cook separately, in the usual manner, an equal quantity of all the vegetables mentioned in recipe. Boil potatoes with their jackets, peel while still warm and marinate in French dressing while still warm. When ready to serve vegetables, have them well chilled and arrange in layers in a large salad

Salad Notes: Ingredients for a salad should be large enough to retain their identity. It's not a good idea to hide a vegetable like broccoli does not like by chopping it very fine. Chard, but do not chop vegetables.

Simplest salads are the most delicious. A salad should taste as good as it looks.

Use ingredients lightly, never with abandon. Dressing need not cover every place. Salad greens should always be clean, clean, fresh.

Many of the ships being built today use wood as material for stern shaft bearings—the hardest wood in the world—usually called lignum-vitae. According to the dictionary, lignum-vitae is also known as the zygothylaceous genus guaiacum—but this term, obviously isn't often used around shipyards.

The wood, in addition to being very hard, is also very heavy—it is so heavy that it will not float in water—so hard that shaping it is the most difficult procedure—yet each block is worked to a .004 inch exactness. In a six-foot stern shaft bearing, there are 128 separate blocks. Channels between the blocks permit the circulation of hot water, the only lubrication necessary.

PSORIASIS

A patient concerned about the cause of his skin disease, Thomas, a 37-year-old man, says that the plaques of the skin first appeared on his hands when he was 13 years old. "I was a boy with dry, silver-scaled skin," he says. "I was a troublemaker and a scoundrel, and my face was exposed to the sun. I had fine bleeding peeling."

"It occurs in all countries, in both sexes. In the young, the old, it is not contagious or infectious, but it is

Dr. Barton seems to run in his family."

It heals without forming blisters or leaving a scar. Although no pain or other symptom is present, it causes much distress and embarrassment.

The patient told the skin specialist that he had "tried everything including physicals," prescribed and the patent remedies but couldn't obtain permanent cure. He wanted the underwear treatment he was told to know if the specialist could cure him.

The specialist frankly told him that he knew of no "cure" for psoriasis, but many of his patients obtained relief for months and years by two simple acts. They got out into the air and sunshine as much as possible and avoided severely or greatly reduced the amount of food eaten. The very first time that the lack of hard work seldom attacked him, psoriasis was shown that sunlight is a powerful provoking pessima. In fact, most of his patients gave up his and his treatment, the psoriasis disappeared for months or years, and then returned. It is possible that in some of these cases "that cured the psoriasis" the patients put aside vegetables, ate a fat food, and more cereals and fruits containing vitamins A, C, and D. In others, turning down on fat foods and taking

In Hygieia, the Health Magazine, Maurice J. Costello states that natural sunlight, particularly when combined with salt water bathing, is the most pleasant and convenient and one of the best forms of treatment for chronic psoriasis. Planning the body is both a temporary cure and a preventive of psoriasis. X-ray treatment is often effective but should be used sparingly under the supervision of a physician or X-ray specialist.

The point is that while chrysomiasis can be helped for periods of time by official and non-official preparations, sunlight and cut-down on fat feeding, it is not

Some years ago I spoke about a middle-aged woman who had suffered for years with an arthritis. I kept her almost bedridden. She wanted to complain that her food was "half way down" the esophagus, food carrying the food to the stomach; she was sure that a growth was blocking the tube. Her physician pointed out that if there was a growth or obstruction present, it would block the food every time she ate solid food whereas there were times when she ate solid food without feeling any block in the tube. In order to convince her he took her to the X-ray department of a hospital and by the aid of a fluoroscope and mirror she was able to see food pass directly from the mouth down the tube to the stomach without any delay whatever.

There was no question but he felt the delay must have present at times but only because there was a spasm of the tube, any real obstruction present. Cause of the spasm was emotion.

In Radiology, Drs. W. B. Farnham, F. H. Rodenbaugh and John A. McNeill show that emotional upsets may produce a disturbance in the esophagus which can be discovered by the X-rays and by use of the esophagoscope (instrument showing condition of esophagus). They noticed this first in the outline fluoroscopic (X-rays) examination of patient with a severe spasm of esophagus. The spasm, nearly seen, disappeared when the assurance statement was made. They reassured the patient while a statement that displeased the patient brought on the spasm again.

It can thus be seen that if a patient is given when the patient is upset or nervous a spasm may occur which causes a "blocked" feeling, whereas if patient is relaxed there will be no blocked feeling.

They'll sleep well tonight, those members of your local War Price and Rationing Board. Because it's late, they're tired — and they've done a worthwhile job.

They're just average Americans, your friends and neighbors. But — they're the type of patriots that make America "live." They work hard all day at their own jobs — and then put in after-hour sessions at the board — to make sure that everyone gets a fair share of food and fuel and other rationed commodities.

Nobody asked them to do it. They volunteered. They thought they owed it to the people in their community and to the fellows "over there."

That's why they're working long hours — without pay — listening to complaints, making decisions, solving problems with patience and fairness. It isn't easy. And more often than not it's a thankless job. So — help them all you can. It's the only way you can repay them.

Miss Marian Popeck, D. B. Sharp Marry In Washington

Miss Marian Frances Popeck and Mr. Daniel Byron Sharp were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, October 31, 1943, at 4 o'clock, in a double ring ceremony read by the Rev. Wilson Holden in the Centennial Baptist Church at Washington.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Popeck, of Washington, Pa., and Mr. Sharp is the son of the late Charles L. Sharp, of Washington, D. C., and is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Sharp of Pinehurst farm on Knappa Creek, this county.

Papa formed the background for the ceremony which was decorated with flowers. Miss Ruth Lippert played the traditional wedding march.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a long white gown and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her maid of honor, Miss La Fern Smith of Arlington, Va., wore a light blue tulle gown with hat of white feathers and veil to match, and carried a large bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. The bridegroom was attired in a dark suit, and was escorted by Mr. Russell Craig, of Washington, D. C., as best man.

The bride's mother was dressed in a blue gown with black accessories and wore a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. G. M. Sharp, wore a royal blue gown with blue accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Sharp is a graduate of McKinley high school, Washington, D. C., and is now a machinist in the Navy Yard there. Mrs. Sharp is a graduate of Washington high school, of Washington, Pa., and is employed as a stenographer in the Navy Department in the nation's capital.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Smith of Arlington, Va., where a three-tiered cake surmounted by bride figures centered the dining table. Sandwiches, punch, nuts and candy were served. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Popeck, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Craig, Mrs. Ethel M. Kuncel, Mr. and Mrs. George Bahlman, Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. ## Forestry Chief Urges Pulpwood Harvest

PLANTAINS, avocados and other forest products are urgently needed for nutrition. We are depending on the rain woodland areas of the country for a very substantial share of the production that will be required to back up our work in the fighting forests. I want to suggest some simple means which are adaptable either to the two things. Much can and must be made of such wood as bursera and cashew, palm and other forest products in making it so that a small amount of growing timber will be left growing for future use.

My dear Mr. [illegible] I am very glad to hear from you and hope you are well. I am well and hope you are the same. I am very glad to hear from you and hope you are well. ## Both Parties Study Election Trends; Higher Wage Scale Ends Coal Strike; Permit System May Regulate Marketing As Hog Shipments Flood Packing Plants

Heavy Receipts

With big shipments flooding packing centers and many slaughterhouses reported shifting receipts in less congested yards, there were rumors that the government may impose a permit system to regulate marketing.

During a recent three-day period, packers received 574,000 hogs, of which 40,000 were the second October peak of the program work. With packers to receive about 100,000 hogs in ten days' supply, 250 to 270 hogs a day, the total for the first ten days of the year is 2,500,000 hogs, with another 100,000 hogs shipped from 15 cents to 41 cents in 1943.

Although the government had worked out a permit system for marketing last year, it did not apply it when heavy flows were in. According to reports, packers would be given to higher hogs if the permit system were to be applied.

Meat Production

Meat production for 1944 will total 24 billion pounds, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported, but increased government funds will cut down the deficit.

More than 80 million hogs will be slaughtered in 1944, the BAE said, so there will be more than 100 million pounds of meat in the year. The cost of meat is expected to be lower than last year's.

Record Debt for U. S.

As of October 31, the direct federal debt of the U. S. stood at approximately 100 billion dollars. Broken down, that represents a debt of $1,000 for every person in the country or $5,000 per family, on the basis of four members.

The present debt compares with the debt of 40 billion which existed before the war, when the federal debt averaged 25 per cent. Following World War I, the public debt reached 80 billion dollars, with over 4 per cent interest. The present 100 billion dollar debt does not include over 4 billion dollars of government guaranteed obligations.

MANPOWER

Define Essential Industry

At least 75 per cent of a company's business must be essential for any person to be frozen into their jobs under War Manpower Administration regulations.

In plants with essential as well as nonessential production, only workers employed on the essential manufacturing can be frozen into their positions.

Workers frozen in essential industry cannot transfer to other jobs without obtaining releases from their employers, unless they can offer evidence that their skills are not being fully utilized in their occupations, or they are not being employed full time.

RUSSIA

New Rumania

As German forces retreated in the southern Rumania, they were only 100 miles from the power Rumanian border, while in the north, they fell back to within 45 miles of the old Latvian boundary.

Retired Reg. returned the front line in the southern Rumania, with the German fighting bitterly to hold open an escape corridor for their troops threatened with encirclement in the great head of the Danube river. With the German holding at Rumania, it appeared as though they were successful in moving most of their forces back to the rear.

Along the Black Sea coast further south, Russian troops continued to push over the border, forcing Rumanian forces to retreat. As a result of recent movements, the battle front in Rumania has shifted in a straight line from north to south, with the huge Danube river bridge eliminated.

EUROPE

Food Plentiful

With 15 billion pounds of bread, cereals, potatoes and dairy products at high levels, Europe's food stocks appear adequate for the next year on the basis of reports of European newspapers and Swedish correspondents. Only pig and poultry supplies are smaller.

Because of the efficiency of Germany's rationing system, it was said, food will not contribute to any collapse of the Nazi regime. In contrast, the German food situation is supplemented by the German diet. On the other hand, Russia faces serious food shortages this winter, with conditions approaching famine in some areas.

Should the war in Europe end suddenly, it is difficult to foresee the problems which will arise in feeding the vast hordes of refugees in the cities, whose food needs will be a serious problem of unemployment.

INSIDE JAPAN

Morale High

Intensive propaganda has had its effect in Japan, with the 20 million people firm in their conviction that there is a holy war to reach the white man's domination of Asia.

Early victories after Pearl Harbor heightened Japanese enthusiasm, and although they realized the general food shortage with black markets, they say that the morale of the Japanese people has remained high.

They say that the Japanese people have accepted added privations as one of the necessities of war.

Lesson for November 21
HONESTY IN ALL THINGS
LEVINSON TEXT: "Thou shalt not steal."
LEVINSON TEXT: "Thou shalt not steal."

It seems to be an obvious fact that one might expect to find honesty everywhere if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

In a matter of fact, dishonesty is so common that a person who is strictly honest is a bit of a rarity. Some even think he is a fool.

In such circumstances the honest man needs to be vigilant lest he be deceived by the dishonest.

The teaching of Scripture on this subject is very plain. "Thou shalt not steal" (Ex. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved.

From the cash drawer, taking from the stock with which one is working, stealing another's money and preaching it as one's own, "stealing" material out of other men's backs without credit.

Stealing does which one can earn pay, as a false weight and measure, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, or selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a saw instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is stealing from one's property by chance or by chance), making an undue large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the services and business of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that is the honest way.

H. H. H. and Restoration (Lev. 19:11, 13)

The honesty and thoroughness of the honest man was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had, and that he felt it was his duty to do so.

It is as if he were to do so, to give a man a property by chance or by chance, making an undue large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the services and business of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that is the honest way.

Boothman Lambis Hard to Raise; Expensive Delicacy

Sheep born in the fall and early winter, when sold in the suckling stage between two and four months of age, are known as boothman lambis, says Pathfinder. The animals not only have to be raised with special care, but they constitute only one in about every 25,000 sheep slaughtered here annually. Consequently, their meat is a rare and expensive delicacy and most of it is purchased by fine restaurants and other luxury trade.

The Rubber Shortage is behind us but the Tire Shortage is still here!

Less than two years ago America faced as frightening a situation as any country at war ever faced.

Unless something was done, and done quickly, we would soon be without rubber.

And without rubber, no plane could fly, no tank could move, no ship could sail, no truck could roll, people could not get to work, materials could not move to and from plants.

That was the situation the Government and the rubber companies had to lick inside of two years if America was to stay in the war.

Did the "impossible" really happen?

Let's see what you think. Right now, there is nearly enough rubber to meet our essential needs. Today, this threat to American victory is merely an unpleasant memory, because Government, the Rubber Director, and a group of industries—rubber, petroleum, chemical, alcohol—working together, compressed into less than two years a job that would normally have taken a dozen years. But...

Because the public saw huge synthetic rubber plants shoot up almost over night, and heard that synthetic rubber was in large-scale production, they figured the tire headache was almost over.

Now—a warning!

This is the situation today—the rubber supply crisis is past, but the long predicted and anticipated tire shortage is with us.

Why is this so, when thousands of tons of Government synthetic rubber are now being made?

Why is this so, when the rubber industry is producing a tremendous tonnage of rubber products and more airplane and truck tires than ever before?

Because, as the Baruch Committee foresaw—the fact that few tires could be made until we had our synthetic rubber supply well on the way, resulted in millions of tires going out of service without replacement—and those remaining have less mileage in them. Inventories of prewar tires are gone.

Because our military needs are way beyond anyone's anticipations.

Because the rubber companies must use a lot of their manpower and machines to make bullet-sealing gas tanks and hundreds of other rubber products for war, in addition to tires.

Because half of today's requirements are for heavy-duty, large-size truck, bus, combat, artillery, and airplane tires, requiring many, many times the labor and materials of peacetime needs... and finally...

Because the manpower shortage hangs over the tire industry as it does over all industry, and there are just too few hands for the job.

Straight from the Shoulder

These problems will be licked when our enemies are licked. Meanwhile, we want to tell you frankly that unless you, and all tire-owners continue to make the preservation of tires a vital personal problem... our home-front transportation will break down and slow up the war production of America.

The way out is for you to conserve the tires you've got—stretch their life in every way you can.

How to make tires last longer

Do no unnecessary driving.

Live up to the government regulation—don't exceed 35 miles an hour.

Keep your tires inflated up to recommended pressure, and check them every week.

Avoid hitting holes in the road, or bruising your tires on curbs or stones. Don't start or stop suddenly. Slow down for sharp corners.

See that your wheels and axles are in line.

Switch your tires from wheel to wheel every five thousand miles, and have them inspected regularly for removal of foreign objects and repair of cuts.

And—most important of all—recap your tires as soon as they become smooth.

Though not all civilians will be able to get synthetic rubber tires in the near future, you may be one of those who will. Therefore, you should know... and remember... these facts:

FACTS ABOUT PASSENGER CAR TIRES

The synthetic rubber tire is not yet an improvement but it will keep your car rolling through the emergency.

In many respects, the new synthetic rubber tires are an unknown quantity.

How they would behave at the phenomenally high speeds of prewar days is purely academic. The patriotic citizen knows that high speeds wear out his tires far faster than the recommended speed of 35 miles per hour, and drives accordingly.

Under-inflation, driving over rough roads, and other abuses are bad for all tires—but today's evidence is that synthetic tires will stand less of these abuses than the tires you have been used to.

But, since these tires will be rationed to you in trust for the nation, it will be your duty to take every possible care of them, and to prevent misuse and abuse.

As we gain more experience with synthetic rubber tires, more and more things will become known about them, and the public will be kept informed.

If you use synthetic rubber tires, be sure they are properly installed. They should be put into the tire, then inflated, deflated, and inflated again. And they should never be mounted on rusty rims.

FACTS ABOUT TRUCK AND BUS TIRES

On truck and bus tires, particularly in over-the-road, inter-city service, the situation is less satisfactory.

Truck and bus tires are operated under more severe conditions than passenger car tires. They are heavier, thicker—generate more heat. They are all too frequently overloaded, must travel on any kind of highway their work requires.

Again we'll be perfectly frank about it: synthetic truck and bus tires now built will not stand all the abuse that the prewar tire would take, especially overloading. Progress is being made every day—but overloading which damaged a prewar tire can ruin today's synthetic rubber tire.

The Tire Industry is lending every effort to solve the serious problems of furnishing satisfactory and sufficient tires to the truck and bus field.

But a serious threat still exists to our most vital transportation.

So remember this—while the trends of present truck and bus tires are vitally important, the carcasses of these tires have no value to our truck operators, and to the nation, that is beyond price. Unless these tires are made to last and last, there is almost certain to be a breakdown of truck service.

Every one of these tires must be recapped the very minute it needs it—before any damage is done to the carcass. Speeds must be cut down, especially on hot roads. Overloads must be eliminated. Proper inflation is a necessity.

Operators, garage men, drivers, all have a heavy responsibility that they cannot now avoid. These are straightforward statements. The warning must not go unheeded. A new tire warranty recognizes these conditions, but the real job is conservation!

A new warranty—

With conditions as they are, and synthetic rubber in its present stage of development, a new tire warranty has become necessary and has been adopted. It applies to all tires. Under its terms, injuries such as bruises, body breaks, cuts, snags, and beat failures, as well as tread wear are not subject to adjustment consideration.

Nor are injuries or failures which result from improper tire care or misuse or abuse. This includes failure as a result of overload, excess speed, improper inflation, or other non-defective conditions. Or when tires are used on rims not conforming to Tire and Rim Association Standards.

Remember—the tire industry, the Rubber Director, everyone is working together with all their energy, as they have from the outset, to keep America's wheels turning.

On your part—take care of the tires you've got now!
